8. Timing without cable connection between start and finish

The FIS Timing Working Group recognizes the importance of allowing emerging and technically responsible technologies to be used in modern FIS events. For this reason, and because of the flexibility that it affords, FIS Level 1 to 4 events may use timing solutions that do not require any hard wire connection between start and finish for either A and/or B systems. Level 0 events are not allowed to use this solution.

Regardless of the technology being used, every solution without cable connection to start and finish must include the use of 4 homologated timers operating in synchronized Time-of-Day with active printers. System A will be represented by one timer at the start and one timer at the finish. One timer at the start and one timer at the finish will represent system B.
